Netflix Data Analysis

The Netflix Content Analysis project has revealed significant insights into the streaming platform's strategies for catering to diverse audiences. By comparing content trends between the USA and India, we observed distinct patterns in the growth of content addition, particularly after Netflix's entry into the Indian market in 2016. Key findings include the identification of target age demographics, variations in ratings across regions, and the presence of notable actors, which highlight Netflix's tailored approach to meet viewer preferences. Overall, this analysis underscores the importance of understanding regional differences in content strategy, providing a foundation for future explorations into streaming trends.
